

The practice of plaintiff's personal injury law has changed dramatically over the past 20 years. The leaders of the plaintiff's bar are now a small group of highly educated lawyers who pay meticulous attention to the details of their cases and use cutting-edge technology to present these facts to juries in the most compelling manner. This, in a nutshell, describes Eichen, Levinson & Crutchlow.

SPECIALIZING IN MALPRACTICE AND PRODUCT LIABILITY CASES Eichen, Levinson & Crutchlow was founded five years ago by William Levinson and Barry Eichen. Levinson is a prominent trial lawyer specializing in complex malpractice and product liability cases. Eichen has tried hundreds of significant cases ranging from product liability and medical malpractice to employment discrimination and motor-vehicle accidents. William Crutchlow, a recent partner at the firm, has become one of the leading young trial lawyers representing injured patients in medical negligence cases. All three partners are certified by the Supreme Court of New Jersey as Civil Trial Attorneys.

HIGHLY FAVORABLE VERDICTS The lawyers at Eichen, Levinson & Crutchlow have generated more than $200 million in verdicts and settlements over the last 10 years. The firm generated $32 million in three jury verdicts in 2005 alone. Two of these cases arose out of medical negligence. The third, a $19.2 million verdict that arose from the tragic death of a New Jersey Transit Railroad worker, stands today as the largest railroad worker verdict in New Jersey under FELA.

THE HIGH-TECHNOLOGY EDGE Eichen, Levinson & Crutchlow is known for its aggressive approach to handling extremely complex, multi-million-dollar, personal injury cases. The hard work and dedication of seven lawyers and 20 paralegals and secretaries, including a registered nurse and a technology expert, enables the firm to present the most complex cases to juries in an easily comprehensible way, which results in extremely favorable verdicts for its clients. Operating out of a custom-built, 12,000-square-foot office, the firm is capable of achieving the best results possible in a wide range of serious personal injury cases.
